

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

In a medical clip consisting of a platelet of an elastic bio-compatible material, the platelet is provided with a central H-shaped cut-out so as to form a frame structure with tongues extending from the frame structure toward each other 5 and having adjacent front edges forming grasping elements, and the frame structure is curved and elastically biases the front edges toward each other.